ON THE SAME PAGE 2016

For the 6th consecutive year, the communities of Lafayette, Louisville, and Superior are asking residents, "What happens when everyone in the community reads the same book at the same time?" What we hope is that people will be inspired to read and will then inspire family and friends to join in and start a conversation. We have seen this happen each of the past five years, and we believe the 2016 selection will renew this enjoyable and uplifting tradition.

All the Light We Cannot See is an epic novel of historical fiction by Anthony Doerr and winner of the Pulitzer Prize. The book is an imaginative and intricate novel inspired by the horrors of World War II that explores human nature and the contradictory power of technology.

Connect with the Library and members of your community and participate in book discussions in September. We'll also have our annual performance of excerpts from the book by 'Stories on Stage'.

On The Same Page is funded by the Town of Superior, the Lafayette Friends of the Library Foundation, and the Louisville Public Library Foundation. 'Stories on Stage' is sponsored by the Louisville Cultural Council.

Lafayette Public Library, Louisville Public Library, and the Town of Superior present
the 6th annual community-wide reading program.

What happens when everyone in the community
reads the same book at the same time?
Find out by reading this year's title, an epic novel of historical fiction by Anthony Doerr and winner of the Pulitzer Prize.
