I. GENERAL INFORMATION

BACKGROUND

The Miners Memorial statue in front of City Hall is a symbol of the history of the people who built Louisville - the coal miners. In August 1877, the Welch Mine opened in Louisville, the first of many coal mines to come. Louis Nawatny, a local landowner, platted his land and named it for himself. The Town of Louisville was incorporated on June 16, 1882.

The City is home to many great companies-- from sole proprietors to corporate campuses. There are approximately 14,000 employees within our community, specializing in growing and diverse industries such as advanced manufacturing, bioscience, health and wellness, aerospace, outdoor recreation, and professional services.

Louisville businesses benefit from a highly educated workforce. Over 72% of Louisville's adult population has a bachelor's degree, and of those, half have an advanced degree. The quality of life and community amenities draw people here from around the country.

A walkable and historic downtown, large Recreation/Senior Center, 32 miles of trails and approximately 2000 acres of open space make Louisville a great place to live and work.

NEED

The City Manager for Louisville has recently resigned. The Council appointed an interim city manager to serve until the Council appoints a new city manager.

A home rule municipality, Louisville has a Council-Manager form of government. The city manager is the chief executive officer of the city and is responsible for the day-to-day management of City operations, including supervision of all city departments. The City has approximately 200 full-time employees and 366 part-time variable employees to cover all municipal services excluding a fire department.

The Council is the legislative and governing body of the city and the City's home-rule charter gives the Council the power and authority to hire a city manager and set their salary. As such, the Council is overseeing the recruitment of the city manager position, with assistance from legal counsel and city staff. The City Council needs an executive search firm to facilitate the process and assist the Council in evaluating candidates.

OBJECTIVES

Hire a qualified and experienced city manager who is approachable, a critical thinker, and has solid financial knowledge and public administration experience. The final candidate shall believe in the values and priorities of the City of Louisville as well as experience building relationships with a variety of community stakeholders. The goal is to have the selected candidate start in the role on or before January 1, 2025

The Council is looking for a forward-thinking executive with management expertise to implement Council's goals including but not limited to economic vitality, affordable housing, climate change initiatives, and an updated Comprehensive Plan.

The City is interested in retaining services of a company, or an individual, that has executive recruitment expertise relative to City government executive positions, has considerable knowledge of how to conduct an executive recruitment (again specific to City government positions), has the ability and capacity to recruit a diverse set of qualified applicants with respect to disability, race, color, sex, sexual orientation, religion, age, national origin, ancestry, and veterans' status, and can successfully conduct an effective, timely nationwide recruitment.

COMMUNITY PROFILE

About Our Community

Established in 1878, Louisville's history is rooted in mining and agriculture. Over the years, the city has grown into a vibrant, thriving, and innovative community with a high standard of living. Nestled along Colorado's Front Range, Louisville is located in Boulder County, just nine miles east of Boulder and about 22 miles northeast of Denver.

Nearly 70% of Louisville residents possess a college degree, and the community is continuously ranked amongst the best places in the country to live and raise a family. With approximately 1,900 acres of open space, 28 parks, and more than 32 miles of interconnecting trails for biking and hiking, Louisville residents enjoy a myriad of opportunities to enjoy the natural beauty of Northern Colorado.

In addition to abundant recreational opportunities, Louisville residents also have convenient access to arts and culture amenities, excellent dining and shopping destinations, and the state's third-highest ranked school district. In the City's 2020 Citizen Survey, 99% of survey respondents rated Louisville as a place to live as excellent or good, and 98% rated its quality of life as excellent or good.

Louisville's authentic Main Street contributes to the city's small-town feel and hosts outdoor dining, craft breweries, galleries, boutiques, a state-of-the-art library, and more. World-class medical care includes the Avista Adventist Hospital in Louisville, the Boulder Medical Center, and several hospitals in Denver, including Children's Hospital Colorado and the Anschutz Medical Campus. A robust transit system, the Regional Transportation District (RTD), connects the city to the region.

The city's proximity to the University of Colorado and the Colorado School of Mines, as well as several national laboratories including NOAA, NIST, and NCAR, has helped foster a robust high-tech business and manufacturing presence in Louisville's Colorado Tech Center, a master-planned business park.

As Money magazine noted, "Add in dry, clear weather, little crime, good health care, low taxes, and Louisville is pretty tough to beat."

Our City Government

The City of Louisville is a home rule municipality operating under the council-manager form of government. The seven-member city council consists of the mayor, elected at large, and six councilmembers elected from three wards, all of whom are elected on a nonpartisan basis. The mayor and councilmembers serve four year terms and are limited to two consecutive terms. Ward representative elections are staggered, with elections happening in odd-numbered years.

The city council sets policy, enacts ordinances, adopts the biennial budget, and hires the city manager, who oversees day-to-day operations, as well as the city attorney, municipal judge, and prosecuting attorney.
